Dear Friends

A Happy and Blessed Christmas and a Prosperous & Spirit filled New Year To You all.

Yes, it's that 'special time' again when the tinsel, holly garlands and Christmas tree lights appear on the High Street with an array of Festive Goodies to indulge our bursting waistlines and gladden the heart as well as our bank managers. Ha! The build up Christmas truly does bring out the inner child within all of us.

Have you noticed lately the sheer deluge of TV adverts offering special deals on sofas with free delivery as well as food? I get so incensed with the repetitiveness of these adverts that I am almost driven to distraction by them! Sadly, a spiritual feast has been hijacked by materialism taking the simplicity out of Christmas and replacing it with pure self-indulgence and greed. It takes a person of great inner 'spiritual strength' to totally ignore the many distractions that pervades our space. For many, the meaning of Christmas is not about celebrating the first 'Christ Mass' but more about 'I will have, I will get and I will definitely receive regardless.' Society has lost its sense of spiritual direction leaving many feeling totally disengaged with their soul, their inner vision of Divine Love.

As Light Workers in service to Source, from the very moment of our inception and conception, we were called by God to be a 'People set apart' to sing the Divine Praises of Love- God's love for all mankind. Living in a world where the many who disbelieve in that love search aimlessly looking for something else to fill the void in their hearts as well as in their lives. We are in a unique and privileged position as ambassadors of God to 'Let our Light Shine out' for all to see and, 'Behold the Mystery of God's love for them. Recently, I came across a beautiful verse written by Julian of Norwich which reads, 'He is our clothing, for Love. He enwraps us and envelops us, embraces us and encloses us. He hovers over us, for tender love, that He may never leave us.'

Personally, Christmas is more about disconnecting from the hustle and bustle of materialism and superficiality that has preoccupied so many in our society today. I am not advocating that we become joyless and skinflints. Nor am I advocating that we forsake our comfortable homes to join some nunnery. Rather, what I recommend is that we make sufficient time in our busy lives each and every day to engage with the Spirit of Christmas in silence and thereby allow the Messengers of God, the Angelic realms, to deliver a similar message that was given to Mother Mary by the Archangel Gabriel. His message was simple, yet profound! He invites all of us to be still before God and allow the Spirit of the Christ child to be reborn in our hearts; in our minds and in our very souls. We can only be receptive if we make time for meditation, silence and quiet prayer thus allowing the Angelic Messengers of Love channel God's Love to our lives.

There are many who engage in the healing ministry who have admitted to me in our conversations that they have no time for prayer or meditation! Their emphasis is more about earning a living and thereby ignoring the cry of the soul for spiritual food. We are familiar with the old Indian saying that we are made up of three rooms. The mind-body and spirit. If we unknowingly or knowingly ignore one of these rooms then we have imbalance. Today, so many therapists have decided to ignore the cry of the soul and it would seem that they have compromised their soul by totally denying it spiritual food. There are those who have focussed more on keeping up appearances and feeding their ego at the loss of their spiritual connection with God. Again, we are reminded daily by the Angelic realms through synchronicity that God is patiently waiting on each one of us to return to our proper place and seek solace in the Divine Oneness. Again, there is another wise old saying that reads, 'you can bring a horse to the well but you cannot make it drink.'

We know that Christmas is a special time for family and friends to come together and share gifts, etc. However, Christmas is a spiritual reunion of sorts whereby we are individually invited by the Angels to make time for our spiritual life to get back into a more stabilised relationship with oneself and with one's God through seeking not the adulation of men but through the opening up of our hearts before God. When we make that time for intimacy with God, we rediscover 'who we truly are as a child of God' and we do not need approval of God for He loves us for who we are as that special child. If we have specific needs (not wants), then we are encouraged to share them with God so that we can receive from our Father Mother God who loves us unconditionally. If we do not ask, then we don't get our heart's desires met by God!

Over the past seven years of doing this work, I have met some very courageous people whose personal story really did touch my life. On another note, I have also met many souls who enjoyed 'victim hood' and their daily diet of wallowing in their own stuff necessitated that I make a very quick exit for the fastest car out of town. Ha! In the past when I worked as a qualified nurse, I was paid to listen to the moans, etc of my client group. It went with the territory! However, what is disheartening in our line of work as Light Workers is to discover the vast number of carers, therapists and others who profess to be healers and say they work with the Light but who quietly have an AGENDA TO character assassinate their peers all because they were challenged from a heart of love.

Today, Sananda Jesus, Mother Mary, Gaia and Mary Magdalene, in the company of the entire Angelic Host who represent Source, invite each one of us to revisit our 'Sacred Contracts' and be responsible for our own lives. Instead of depending upon others to spiritually spoon-feed us as before that we act with integrity and make the necessary adjustments in our personal lives to ascend. Over the past seven years I have supported many clients on a professional basis who requested spiritual support for their faith journey. The Master Jesus to 'COME FOLLOW HIM' called many but sadly, only a few remained consistent to His message. When the going got tough, they soon disappeared into the shadows. How fickle are we as spiritual warriors representing Source?

I know from personal experience that if we are to succeed in our personal and collective service to God, we will experience humiliation, rejection and annihilation from our fellow peers even one's family and closest friends. The journey can indeed be a lonely one at times especially when we encounter opposition through no fault of our own! Rejection and humiliation all go with the territory of been a light worker in the 21st century. So, we must not allow the negative energies distract us in our spiritual path to give up when the going gets too much for us. Rather, when the goings gets tough, the tough get going! As God's warriors, we are all experiencing many challenges right now and at times we are faced with decisions that will inevitably separate the boys from the men or the girls from the ladies. It is a journey of love and light and yet, there is a spiritual battle going on that motivates us to let go and get rid of anything or everything that no longer serves our highest good. So, if you are one like me who is been stretched mentally, physically and spiritually, then please hold firm. Instead of overreacting why not make time to enter a period of silence and invite God to speak directly to your soul and check out God's 'special offers' for your soul today?

Recently, I experienced a personal loss when our 12-year-old Westie 'Miss Ellie' was put to sleep by our vet. I was left feeling totally bereft and unable to pray. In my heart I knew that we had honoured all that I had agreed with Ellie as her owner, but in my head, I experienced many doubts, fears and deep loneliness all because I was afraid to let go and allow God to be. I know that Miss Ellie is back at home with God and now that her life's work on Earth is complete, she has returned to be with the Creator. How beautiful is that! So, I asked myself what lessons I learned from having Miss Ellie as my pal? What Ellie brought into my life could be simplified into one word, namely LOVE. All the animal kingdom knows is Love and yet, mankind does not have a good record of good husbandry. Thank you to those of you who remembered Ellie as I know that her inimitable ways had a profound impact on the lives of certain clients and students who came here. So, thank you from our hearts for your kindness.

Immediately following Ellie's demise, I asked Ellie and our other Dog Shimola who is also in God's eternal garden, to select for Winston our surviving dog a playmate. We were specific in that we asked for a tri-colour Cavalier King Charles female under 2 years of age. Seven days immediately following Ellie's death, we took ownership of a 5-month-old female tri-colour Cavalier King Charles puppy that has brought joy, love and laughter back into our lives as well as our home.
